WEDNESDAY EVENING, APRIL 27.

A PISTOL DUEL ACROSS THE TABLE.—A few days after the battle of Waterloo a Mr. Tr-vor and a certain captain, while at a dinner-party, quarrelled about a lady. The captain being a splendid shot and Trevor almost blind, the latter demanded that they should fire at each other across a table. Some one secretly suggested that the pistol should be loaded without bail, and this was done. The two adversaries, who believed their last hour was come, were as pale as death, but if they were, a prey to deep emotion, not a muscle trembled. "Who will give us the signal?" asked the captain. The person who undertook to give the signal said, with a trembling voice, "Raise your pistols." The muzzles touched the breasts of the combatants. "When I count three, fire. One—two—three!" They fired and recoiled from the shock. "What's the meaning of this?" exclaimed the two combatants. "Who has dared to make fools of us? There are no balls in the pistols."

"Honor is satisfied," exclaimed the friends around them. Trevor ground his friends around the friends around them. Trevor groun us? There are no balls in the pistols."
"Honor is satisfied," exclaimed the friends around them. Trevor ground his teeth. "The remedy is easy enough," said the captain, pointing to some swords sus-pended from the wall. He took down two, measured them, and presented one to his adversary, who seized it esgerly. "Now, there shall be no trickery!" he exclaimed. "Stand off, sir." They stood facs to face, and the blades glistened. The contest was short. One of them soon feli-it was the contest. captain. He expired without a groan, "Oh, my God!" exclaimed Trevor, "What have I done? Is all this a reality?" and in terrible despair he flung himself upon the corpse of his rival, which he shook con vulsively, as though to bring it to life again. A Printer's Error.

Sweet are the uses of adversity, the printer's copy said, but he set it up, sweet are the uses of advertising. Sweet, indeed, to those who in sickness and suff-ring have seen the advertisement of some sovereign remedy, which upon trial has brought them from death's door. "The just thing I ever saw in my paper was the advertisement of Dr. Pierce's 'Golden Medical Discovery'" is again and again the testimony of those who have been healed by it of lung d sease, bron chial affections, tumors, ulcers, liver co-plaints and the ills to which flesh is heir.
